

HAVE TRUNK ... WILL TRAVEL

In the rugged hill country of South Vietnam, the machines of man are often unable to do work necessary for the well-being of many villages.

At Trai Bong, 60 miles south of Da Nang, cut timber for a Special Forces detachment lumber mill was unable, via conventional means, to be moved from a nearby hill because of terrain conditions.

To solve the problem, Green Beret Captain John S. Gantt, Cross City, Fla., together with veterinarian Captain George McCahan, Jr., Dauphin, Pa., and First Lt. Frank Orlans, Grand Rapids, Mich., scoured the countryside until 200 miles to the south at a village near Ban Me Thuot in the Central Highlands, they found two available elephants capable of moving the lumber.

To transport the nine-year-old creatures across enemy-infested territory, the men placed both animals on individual cargo nets. Then, using an experimental drug, M-99 (Etorphine), they "shot" both pachyderms with a dart, knocking them unconscious.

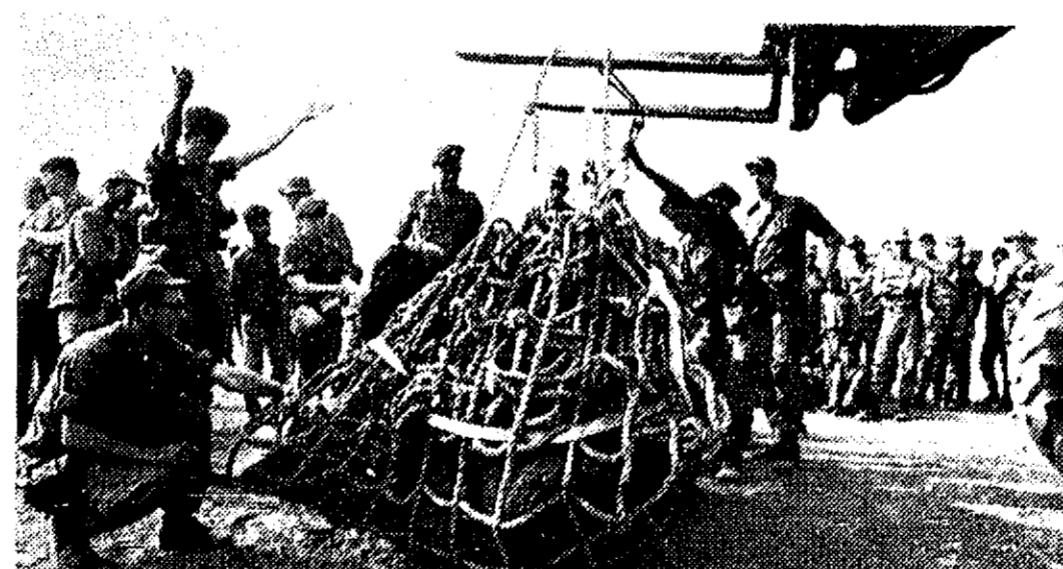

Wrapped within the nets, the drugged elephants were placed on individual steel pallets, strapped and chained down and a cover taped over their eyes for protection.

For the first phase, both were loaded into a C-130 cargo plane and flown to Chu Lai Air Base, 20 miles from Trai Bong. The pallets, with their sleeping cargo, were then airlifted the remaining distance by helicopter.

At Trai Bong, the elephants were uncovered and, with a helping hand by Green Beret troopers, uprighted to be led off for work to the cheers of local Montagnard (mountain tribesmen) villagers.

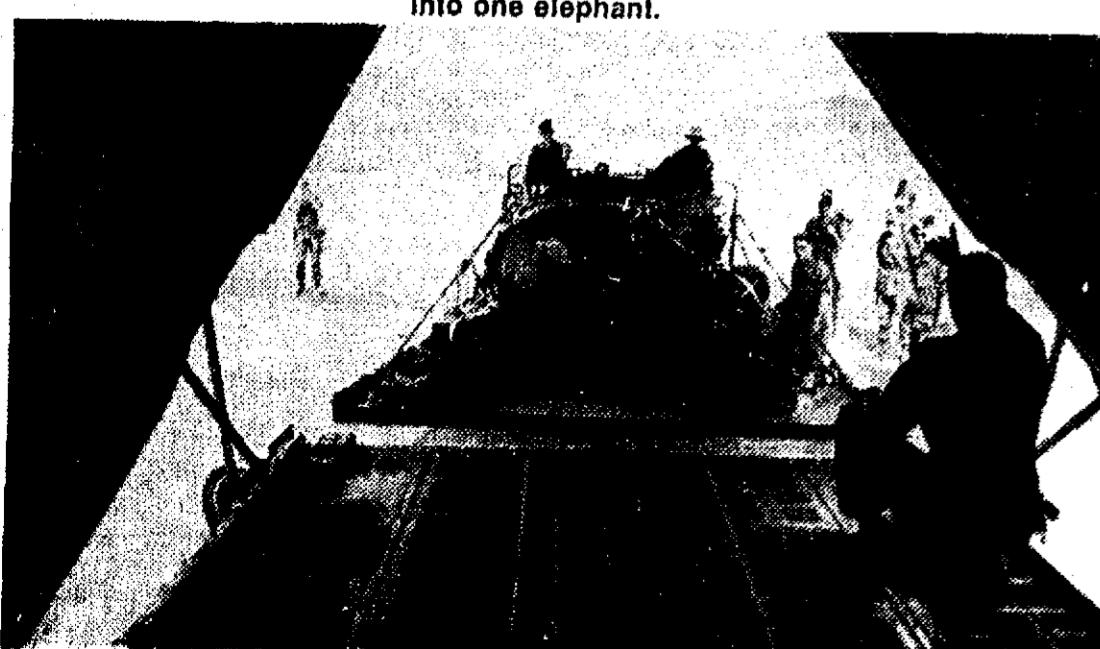

Capt. George McCahan, Jr., prepares to shoot a drug-carrying dart into one elephant.

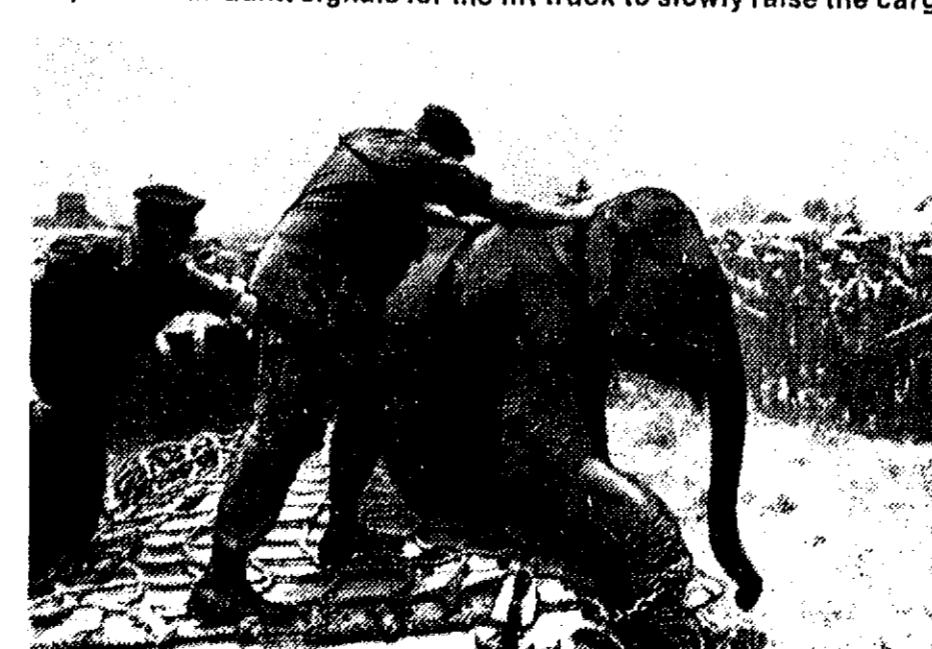

Captain John Gant signals for the lift truck to slowly raise the cargo net.

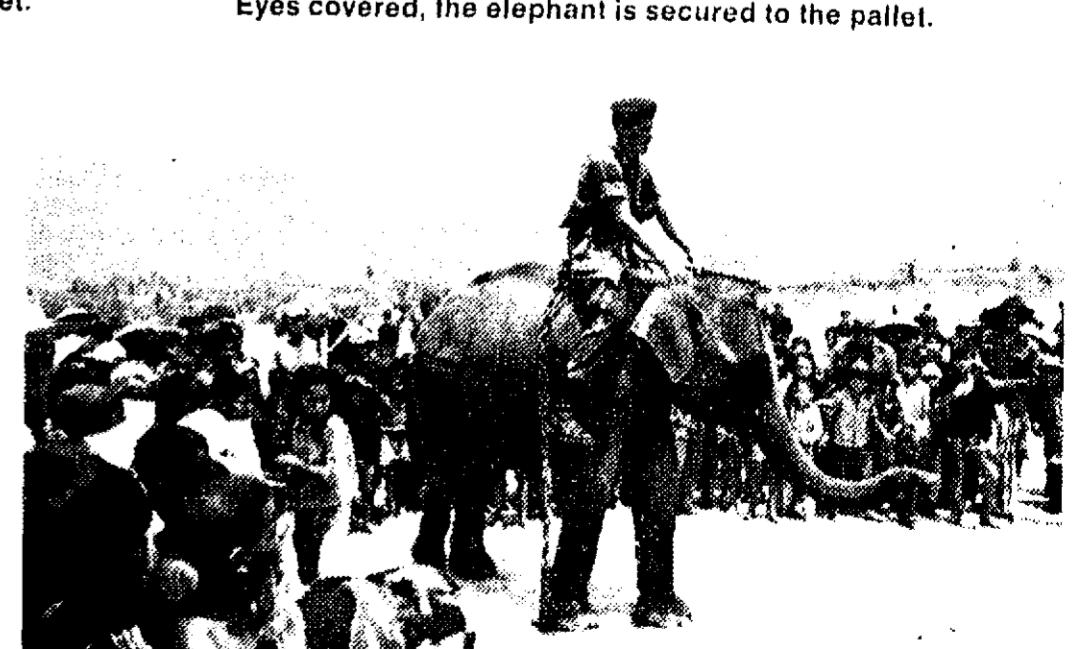

Eyes covered, the elephant is secured to the pallet.

On a pallet and secured, one pachyderm is brought into the C-130 cargo plane.

A Green Beret member at Trai Bong helps one elephant to its feet.

Capt. John Gant leads the elephant, inahout-style, before Montagnard villagers.

THE NATIONAL REPORT ON WHAT'S HAPPENING

Monkee Business: The Monkees, their producers (Screen Gems) and NBC have agreed upon a three "special" arrangement to replace their weekly series. Studio boss, Jackie Cooper, explains: "Because of their popularity, they are more valuable on tour." Pure monkeyshines. The fans and teenie bopper business in fan magazines and on radio and television has dropped sharply. Sponsors are turned off along with teens. Look for more meaningful environments.

COWSILLS EXPLOITATION: The Cowsills (Bill, Bob, 18, Paul 16, Barry 14 and John 12) will make a luny at teen look via a fashion scheme. Even Mom (Barbara) will design for housewives, and daughter Susan will sketch for young ladies. Young London fashion designer, 23-year-old Angela King, will serve as designer-consultant for the entire line. Guess there's some big money behind a big mess of an idea.

UNION SUITS FOR ROCK MUSICIANS? Los Angeles Musicians' Union making a "hip" effort to lure rock artists into the fold. It seems hundreds are not affiliated—hurts the union, hurts the musicians to have them drifting around. Many young rock players naively let managers take 25 per cent to 30 per cent of their income for little in return.

WHITE WAY RIGHT WAY—BRIGHT WAY RIGHT TOO! Boys and men look sharp! No new color news is good news! That is to say the latest color smash is white, white, white. It's cool in sports jackets, slacks, shoes, caps, turtle-necks—matched with real colors much brighter than before. Matter of fact, the Nehru-type jackets and meditation shirts in brilliant original East Indian prints are predicted biggies in next fall's college scene.

BUSINESS BOOST: Nowadays in order to convince the young people to enter the business world, companies don't stress the profit motive—phrase it in terms of what social problem the company is trying to solve; ergo farm machinery corporation tackles problem of feeding the world's population. Is this a new honesty or a new phoniness, served admirably by semantics? After all, a pose by any other name would smell as cheap.

HOT LINE FOR HANGUPS: New, new, new approach to teens with a hangup. Children's Hospital houses it. Small cards passed discreetly in four California high schools—listing "listening" hours—advertise it. A group of professionals and private citizens thought it up and launched it. Carefully screened graduate students and some professionals carry it out. It's a 12-week pilot program that has just recently been publicly written or talked about. A quiet non-establishment beginning was felt to be a must in order to attract teens to it. Callers get a chance to talk to someone, when they most need it, about whatever their problems may be—from racial to sexual to social. Listeners listen, rarely advise, never make judgments. They will refer to some agency or institution if appropriate. HOT LINE primarily lets teens talk out a problem, review alternatives, get suggestions from an interested empathetic listener. A landmark

Bicycle Circle Vicious: Ever tried bicycling through the city? Or the country for that matter? Forget it! Unless you're tired of living. New York City plans to change all that. They have designed a 50-mile bicycle route on quieter residential streets and the crowded slums. Such a plan could be a boon for a long hot summer in many a town.

Turboines Will Go After the Piston Boys

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A fast little clutch of turbine race cars will try to outrun some sophisticated new piston engines Saturday in opening time trials for the 52nd Indianapolis 500-mile race May 30.

Most of the Indianapolis Motor Speedway's 204,000 seats probably will be filled as top American and European drivers run one at a time against the clock in 10-mile qualifications.

The fastest Saturday will start No. 1 in the race regardless of speeds in later time trials.

Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., who has started on the pole in the last two 500s, will be in the contingent trying to keep piston engines alive. The qualifying record he set last year in his Ford is 168.902 m.p.h.

Graham Hill of London, former world road racing champion and 1966 Indianapolis winner, is almost certain to smash the record. It may fall four or five times.

Hill is driving one of four new Lotus cars with Pratt & Whitney turbine engines.

Some highly refined new piston engines will run against the favored Lotuses.

The famous old Offenhauser engine, which dominated the 500 from World War II until 1965, has been modernized with a turbocharger. This compresses air going into the fuel mixture and hikes horsepower from about 450 to 625.

Bobby Unser, Albuquerque, N.M., has won the last three

Howie Named to Hockey Star Team

NEW YORK (AP) — Gordie Howe, 40-year-old right wing for Detroit, has been named to the National Hockey League's all-star team for the 10th time, equaling the record set by Doug Harvey with Montreal.

Howe has made the second team nine times in his 22-year NHL career.

Other first-team all-star selected Thursday by league coaches included goalie Lorne "Gump" Worsley of Montreal, defensemen Bobby Orr of Boston and Tim Horton of Toronto and center Stan Mikita and left wing Bobby Hull of Chicago.

The coaches vote at midseason and again at the end of the campaign. Howe, Mikita and Hull were first-team selections in both halves of the voting.

Mikita's selection brought his total award prize money to $10,000.

Kirner's Parting Present

Ben Kirner's departure from pro basketball, via the sale of his St. Louis Hawks to an Atlanta group, was an emotional exercise. It was tough for Ben, a pioneer in the development of the pro game over the last 21 years, to realize he was breaking old associations. At his last league meeting, where Ben's severance was announced, he said to Haskell Cohen, the NBA publicity man for 18 years, "I got to do something for you before I go. Name me anything you want!" . . .

Haskell, whose father lives in Israel and who has been instrumental in building the sports program for that nation, said, "There's a small school of physical education there called Orde Wingate which desperately needs a new dormitory." . . . "You got it," said Ben. . . . "Now wait," cautioned Haskell, "we're talking about $30,000." . . . "You still got it," said Ben. . . .

But Cohen also extracted a promise from Kirner that he and his mother would travel to Israel for the first time to be present at the dedication of the new building. "I'm looking forward to it," said Ben. "I never been anywhere. Only league cities." And he started naming them—Moline, Fort Wayne, Buffalo, Sheboygan, Waterloo. . . . He can afford to broaden his horizons with the $3.5 million he got for the sale of the Hawks. Thirteen years ago, when he tried to unload the club, in his last year in Milwaukee, his asking price (with no takers) was $60,000. . . .

At the time coffee was scarce in this country, but Ben managed to get hold of 1,000 one-pound cans from a friend. He piled them in the lobby of the Milwaukee basketball arena, one can to a ticket-holder. When he came into the building that night, he heard only the thump of basketballs on the floor—no customers. He counted the cans. When the count reached 937, he decided it was time to leave Milwaukee and take the team to St. Louis. . . .

In this off-season for football, the pros are making plans to break out of the continental limits of the United States. The NFL Players Association expects to stage a tournament in Hawaii next winter—but wait, it won't be football. They'll have a 16-team basketball competition to throw their weight around. . . .

Meanwhile, Hank Stram, coach of the Kansas City Chiefs, is in the British Isles with the intent of seeking another soccer-style placekicker (he might even get as far as Paris or Rome since Mrs. Stram went along to scout, too). . . .

When bigger and better betting factories are built, they'll have to use the new Belmont Park as the prototype. The grandstand stretches so far that the corridors look as though they belong in the Los Angeles airlines terminal. And they've taken a tip from the harness racing boys by building a fourth-floor Terrace Restaurant where one can enjoy gourmet delights and not worry about the despondency of watching a horse finish last. The grandstand alone holds 23,615 people. . . .

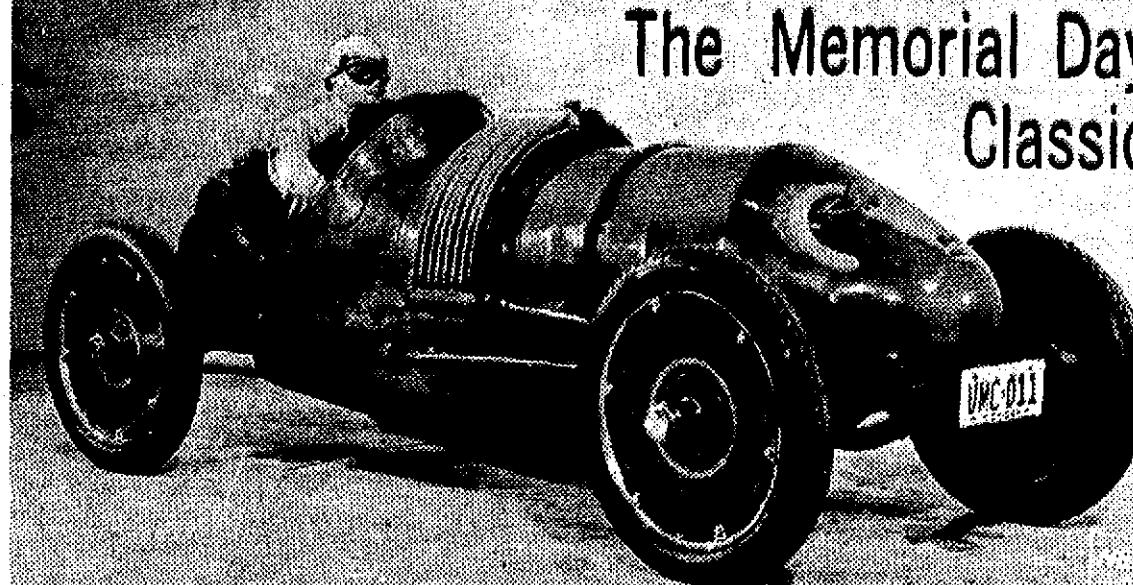

The coaches vote at midseason and again at the end of the campaign. Howe, Mikita and Hull were first-team selections in both halves of the voting.

Mikita's selection brought his total award prize money to $10,000.

Andres Gimeno, the Spanish tennis pro, reveals a trade wrinkle. The boys, playing on that indoor surface which comes in sections, try to hit the seams on their service to

The Memorial Day Classic

The "Bug," above, won half of the road races in the nation back in 1910. It captured a straightaway run at Indianapolis with a record speed of 105 miles an hour.

Spectators crowd parking areas, some coming weeks ahead of time to secure a vantage point for the 500-mile road race each Memorial Day at the Indianapolis, Ind., raceway. Photographer Frank Kuchirchuk took these photos showing viewers atop cars and a family picnic in the middle of a parking lot.

Lonborg: Baseball Is Just Too Dull to Watch

By IRA BERKOW
NEA Sports Writer

THE ROUGH . . . BUT TASTY

The rough fish problem is a lot like the weather — everyone talks about it, but no action.

Unlike the weather, though, this is one problem that can be solved by eating it up. If enough fishermen would let out their belts and overcome their repugnance towards the rough species.

The table qualities of many rough fish surprise even the most finicky eater, observe the experts at Mercury outboards. When properly prepared they become a gourmand's delight, as is the case with most anything that swims, flies or runs.

The list of common "trash" fish is long. It includes such species as suckers, carp, drum, buffalo, mooneyes, redhorse and buffalo.

Many of these are caught commercially, but find their way into the fish markets under assumed (and more palatable) names.

The "white perch" you buy may be drum; "boneless cat" is often the odd-looking paddlefish or spoonbill. Non-sport fish in saltwater receive an even more impressive array of monikers.

To popularize and make use of the tremendous number of rough fish that abound in our waters is a massive undertaking, acknowledge the Mercury lads. First, we must overcome our reluctance to actually bring a mess of "yaller" suckers or "thunderpumpers" home. Then we must know how to turn them into dishes that delight the whole family.

But for the first part of this season, he has been cast in the uncomfortable role of spectator, part-time. Last Christmas eve, he tore ligaments in his left knee while skiing. Not until May did he even begin throwing batting practice. Recuperation has been slow. Lonborg shied from getting into action too briskly for fear of injuring his arm. His knee, now, is fine, he says. Daily, Lonborg takes pregame workouts, including 25 wind sprints.

The latter task must be approached with all the dash and daring of a continental chef, for the old "roll 'em in crumb and fry" methods usually won't do. Contact the state wildlife commission or university extension division for special recipes for marinating, for creole, for a hundred different approaches.

If every fisherman could be persuaded, millions of tons of rough fish could be removed from waters where they compete with sport species. Fishing would improve, and the eatin' . . . well, find out for yourself.

SOLAR TABLES

By Richard Alden Knight

The schedule of Solar Periods, as printed below, has been taken from Richard Alden Knight's SOLAR TABLES. Plan your days so that you will be fishing in good territory or hunting in good cover during these times, if you wish to find the best sport that each day has to offer.

The Major Periods are shown in boldface type. These begin at the times shown and last for an hour and a half or two hours thereafter. The Minor Periods, shown in regular type, are of somewhat shorter duration.

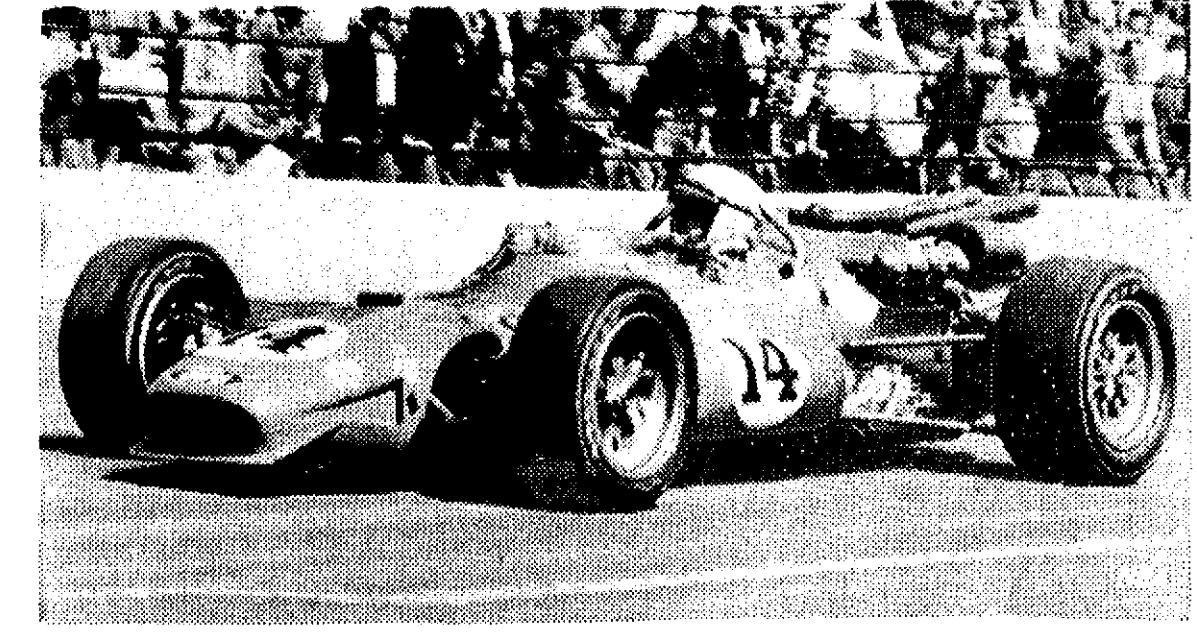

Use Central Daylight Saving time.

Between you'n me, the whole Kentucky Derby drugging case was mishandled. It's evident Dancer's Image wasn't hopped up by the pain-killing drug . . . but that's not the image that will linger from the incident. . . .

Last year's 500-mile race winner at Indianapolis was A. J. Foyt, seen above streaking for the finish line. Foyt averaged better than 151 miles an hour to win the classic.

sion. Even if he had taken his regular turn on the mound, Lonborg feels he wouldn't have helped the club rise.

"We've been getting great pitching," he said. "But we haven't been hitting. I'd be losing like the rest of our pitchers."

"I'm not concerned about the slow start. We're only a few games out of first. You know, last year we were only one game above .500 at All-Star break, 41-39. We made the big push after that."

When Lonborg tore up his knee, star teammate Carl Yastrzemski remarked, "I would not have gone skiing. I feel a responsibility to the club and to my family. Lonborg, of course, is single, which may make a difference. I'm not saying that he shouldn't have skied. I'm just saying that I wouldn't have."

"Some people who criticize me," said Lonborg, "just don't ski the way I do. It's the greatest sport I've ever competed

What One Can Do

One often hears the complaint: "But what can I do? I'm only one voice, and who'll listen to me?" Sometimes that one voice is heard. Sometimes one person can work wonders. Take this example:

A New Hampshire businessman recently heard on the radio an announcement which irked him considerably. "Do you want to spend the next two years trying to please a boss who is trying to please his boss?" The announcement wound up with a plea to avoid all this by joining the Peace Corps. The businessman resented the innuendo against private enterprise. He complained to congressman James C. Cleveland, the Republican who represents New Hampshire's Second District. He also complained to the Peace Corps.

As a result of his complaints, and Congressman Cleveland's interest, the Peace Corps has asked radio stations to discontinue using the offensive announcement. It was, the corps said, "subject to misinterpretation." It was interpreted correctly. And it would not have been withdrawn except for the complaint of that one businessman in a small state. - Lynchburg (Va.) News

What Being Average Means

People are inclined to pride themselves when they equal the average in any field. If they are average in income, average in education, average in production and average in overall accomplishment, they view it as a source of some pride or cite it as a source of consolation. But what is average?

Morris L. McGough, executive vice-president of the Asheville Agricultural Development Council, offered a definition in a recent speech here. It should be remembered, said he, that the average is the worst of the best and the best of the worst. There's not much to be proud about in saying that you're the worst of the best, nor is there much to console yourself in the statement that you are the best of the worst.

Mr. McGough's definition was offered, of course, for the encouragement of the individuals and communities who aspire to be better than the average, which is what he has been doing for years as the director of the Western North Carolina Community Development program which has been doing just that. - Morganton (N.C.) ### Annual Census Puzzle

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan's Oregon backers say their prospects in the Republican presidential primary rest with a man who is not on the Oregon ballot — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

"Will the Rockefeller people campaign intensively for write-in votes? And how successful will they be? That will be the key for us," says Fred Van Natta, director in Oregon of an un-sanctioned campaign for the California governor.

Rockefeller's backers have not disclosed their plans.

Reagan and Richard M. Nixon are alone on the May 28 Republican presidential primary election ballot.

Reagan has not campaigned in Oregon although he has given at least three speeches in the state since he became governor of California. But his campaigners are working full blast for him here.

An estimated 1,000 volunteers are distributing about 120,000 pieces of campaign literature on street corners and in door-to-door campaigning. Oregon has 438,000 registered Republicans.

Ten television advertisements are being used, ranging from 20 seconds to a half-hour. Van Natta estimates the television bill will be $50,000, and the total campaign cost will be $85,000. He says half of this comes from Oregon contributions, the rest from the National Citizens for Reagan organization.

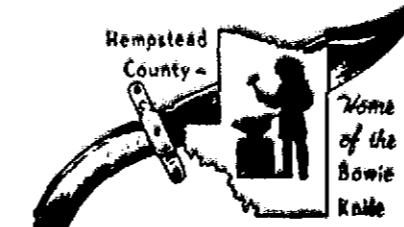

Nixon forces dispute his figures. Alan K. Abner, Nixon's campaign coordinator in Oregon, estimates the Reagan backers have spent at least $300,000 and says it easily could exceed the $400,000 he estimates is going into the Nixon campaign.

"Resurrection City," the encampment housing Poor People's marchers on Washington, is located in the heart of official Washington, in West Potomac Park near the Reflecting Pool and Lincoln Memorial. Originally to have been called "City of Hope," the camp consists of plywood and plastic shelters. Permit for the encampment expires June 16, but sponsors indicate the deadline may be ignored.

FISH FARMING is rapidly increasing as a rural industry in several southeastern states. Here, farmers near Star City, Ark., use nets to harvest catfish from a reservoir. In Arkansas, about 4,000 acres of ponds are producing volumes of catfish.

Youth Drowns Near Ozark

Swedes Learn of Sex Early

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Almost 80 per cent of young Swedes experienced their first sexual contact before marriage, said a scientific report published Thursday.

And among 1,300 young people interviewed in Stockholm only one boy and three girls said they had not had first intercourse until they were married. The findings were reported by Prof. Joachim Israel of Uppsala University.

In a questionnaire of the 1,300, described by Israel as "normal youth," they were asked which partner had taken the initiative. To that, 15 per cent of the boys answered "the girl," while 10 per cent of the girls said "the boy."

Black Jaguar Born in Zoo

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Philadelphia zoo officials reported Thursday the birth of a black jaguar.

Zoo officials said it's only the third known black jaguar in an American zoo. One other is located here and is the father of the new arrival. Zoo officials said the other black jaguar in captivity in North America is at Jacksonville, Fla.

The baby jaguar was born to a tawny yellow mother about May 5, but keepers did not check on it for fear of disturbing the mother and possibly causing death of the baby.

Paris Revolt Threatening Paralysis

By RODNEY ANGOVE
Associated Press Writer

PARIS (AP) — The mushrooming student-labor revolt triggered a breakdown in transportation and many state services today, threatening France with semiparalysis.

President Charles de Gaulle will cut short a state visit to Romania and fly to Paris tonight to be in close touch with the situation, French sources in Romania said.

Red flags flew from more than 40 factories occupied by striking workers. Dozens of other plants were shut down and as the weekend began the list of crippled plants grew. Agitation seemed at a peak in southwestern France and around Paris; the northern and eastern sections were less affected.

Personnel of the state-run radio and television networks threatened today to call strikes that would cut off De Gaulle's main communications link with the French people. But they did not decide when or how to launch the strike.

They announced a seven-point complaint list. They objected to everything from "government interference in the objectivity of news reports" to the attachment of the facility to the ministry of information.

The state-run airline Air France cancelled all flights. And all except Paris railway stations were deserted. Both suburban and long-distance trains were left idle in the yards. Army trucks were hauling commuters into Paris.

Subway and bus traffic in Paris seemed to be diminishing.

The unrest was spreading in the postal and telecommunications services. Workers in Paris mail-sorting centers walked out Friday night. Today reports came from Le Havre and Rouen that all postal workers were on strike, and the same news was expected later from other centers.

Workers were also taking indirect action. The independent newspaper Le Figaro announced that only part of its circulation was run off the presses because pressmen objected to a headline. Figaro said this was an infringement on freedom of the press and lodged a complaint with the Press Federation and government officials.

The students kept up their occupation offensive by trying to occupy the historic Luxembourg Palace where the French Senate meets. The palace is only a few yards from the rear of the Odeon Theater — held by students — but by the time the student march reached it early today, a double hedge of helmeted gendarmes had surrounded the palace.

Reporting for a two-year hitch with the 69th Infantry Brigade this week were Maj. Ralph G. Kent, 45; Sgt. Major Harold L. Kent, 40; Sgt. Arnold D. Kent, 38; Lt. Daryl P. Kent, 22, and Spec. 4 Clifford Kent, 21.

S. Vietnam Afraid of Peace Talks

SAIGON AP — Nguyen Van Loc resigned as premier today, warning that South Vietnam faces a "grave danger" from the Paris cease-fire talks, and a likelihood arose of open feuding within the government.

President Nguyen Van Thieu accepted Loc's resignation, a spokesman for the premier said, and has asked former Premier Tran Van Huong to form a new Cabinet. He said Loc would stay in office until a new premier is named.

Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky, with whom Loc is associated, is known to be adamantly opposed to the current American effort to end the Vietnam war by negotiation and compromise.

Thieu's attitude has been more flexible and if he installs his own choice — Huong — as premier, Ky's position would be weakened seriously.

Some diplomatic sources fear the long-smoldering conflict between Thieu and Ky, which preceded the peace negotiation issue, could erupt into the open after Loc's removal.

Addressing the Cabinet before submitting his resignation, Loc said there was a serious possibility the Paris talks could be expanded into full peace negotiations of the South Vietnamese government.

Cleanup Week Planned in Hope Under Garden Council Sponsorship

By MARY ANITA LASETER
Star Feature Writer

Besides "cleanliness is next to Godliness," we could also sing its praises from the standpoints of beauty, health and safety. We usually think of cleanliness, first of all, as a personal matter — taking a bath, brushing your teeth, wearing clean clothes.

But there is another personal point of cleanliness we are, too often, inclined to overlook. That is in regard to our property. During this Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week, which begins today, May 18 with a parade in downtown Hope at 10 a.m., all the citizens of Hope should make a concerted effort to do what they can to make our town a prettier place in which to live.

By doing so, we will also make it a safer place. How? Why, by a few simple steps everyone can take.

Don't leave objects to clutter up the sidewalks. Not only do they detract from the appearance of the property, they can be the cause of accidents to pedestrians (such as a child's toy or a garden tool that is stepped on causing a fall). Don't park vehicles without thought of the walking passerby either. Sometimes sidewalks or driveways are obstructed when it is not necessary for the benefit of anyone.

Don't toss aside cans, bottles, or paper when you have consumed their contents. Too many times vacant lots and even the yards of homes are cluttered by thoughtless people who feel the whole world is their personal trash can.

The campaign is not designed to embarrass people, only to make them more careful about their actions. Nearly everyone has a litter bag in his car. Use it. Then, when you arrive home, empty it in a trash receptacle.

Pedestrians, please don't leave food wrappers and bottles along the path where you walk. It may not be your yard of neighborhood you are cluttering, but you wouldn't want someone else to mar the looks of your living area. So, have the same consideration for others that you want them to have for you.

Positions of N. Vietnam and U.S.

PARIS (AP) — Here in digest form are the positions the United States and North Vietnam have taken at two negotiating sessions, May 13 and 15.

— Responsibility for the war

The United States: The introduction of forces and weapons from the North into South Vietnam, the armed attacks upon the government and people of South Vietnam, the violation of the borders of South Vietnam and interference in the lives of its people—all these constitute a violation of the Geneva accords of 1954... the introduction of regular units of the North Vietnamese army preceded the introduction of U.S. combat forces into South Vietnam and the sustained bombing of the North... This is why we are in South Vietnam... clearly North Vietnam is the aggressor and the people of South Vietnam the victims.

North Vietnam: The U.S. government has sabotaged the 1954 Geneva agreements on Vietnam, unleashed war and perpetrated ruthless prosecution in South Vietnam. In face of this situation, the South Vietnamese people have no other choice but to rise up and struggle for their right to life... (Minister of State Xuan Thy, May 13).

— U.S. bombing of North Vietnam

The United States: President Johnson stopped all bombing in and around principal populated areas, and in the food producing areas of the North. The President said that even this limited bombing could come to an early end—if our restraint is matched by restraint on the other side. (Harriman, May 13).

North Vietnam: Since the U.S. government has unleashed a war of destruction against the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, the United States has to cease unconditionally its bombing raids and all other acts of war on the whole territory of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam. (Thuy, May 13).

— Proposals for action

The United States: We believe the demilitarized zone should function as a genuine buffer. Let us begin by pulling
